OFF THE RECORD

It is held that the crime of bigamy is likely to decline more rapidly now. Sure, with present prices how can anyone be expected to be thoughtless enough to attempt supporting two homes!

TRY A CLASSIFIED

MR. FARMER—YOU BE JUDGE AND JURY, TOO!

During the world-wide depression of the thirties, prices for everything, including wheat, went crashing down. Millions of people all over the world were unemployed. So many United States banks failed that President Roosevelt closed all banks for a while to avoid nation-wide panic. Since that time, certain people in Western Canada have never ceased to attack The Winnipeg Grain Exchange and blame its Members for the then low world price of wheat.

Our Members had no more to do with that low price than you did. It was caused by the world-wide depression and the excess of supply of wheat over demand because many people couldn't even afford to buy bread. Every fair-minded farmer knows that, despite years of misleading and contrary propaganda put out by the leaders of the "Pools."

Up to now, The Winnipeg Grain Exchange has ignored this misleading propaganda, but the time has come to refute it. So, in a series of advertisements (of which this is the first), The Exchange will tell you how its Members operate and answer some of the questions asked at farmers' meetings. These advertisements will appear in this paper and in leading farm papers for some months to come. Please read them.

You have heard the "Pools" side often enough. Now read our side and be Judge and Jury in the matter. Our Members do not fear your verdict.

Meantime, mail the coupon below for a free copy of the booklet "An Explanation of the Canadian Wheat Board Act 1935 and Amendments Thereto." It's important for you to know how you are now being regulated and controlled.

A Threat Of Disaster

A NUMBER OF FACTORS ARE CONTRIBUTING to the present unstable world conditions. Clashes in political ideologies are receiving a great deal of attention, and equally alarming are the threats of widespread economic disaster. A report recently made public in Washington by the International Emergency Food Council warned that "the twin problems of food and dollar shortages could result in world economic collapse, if not chaos." Thirty-five nations are represented on this council, which serves mainly as an agency to allocate scarce foods fairly in areas where there are serious shortages. The report, which dealt with the present world food situation, was far from encouraging and carried a strong note of warning against impending disaster.

Less Food But More People

Attention was drawn to the fact that there are now 200,000,000 more people to feed than there were before the war, but in spite of this, food production is now ten per cent. less than the per capita world production before the war. In addition, due to a decline in the food output in some countries, the supplies this year are from two to three per cent. less than those of last year. Less grain, hay and potatoes were produced in Europe this season, while there was a decline in the corn crop in the United States. At the same time, smaller food crops were produced in India and several other countries which import much of their food supply. It was also reported that Europe is "desperately short of food for its livestock at a time when that continent is striving to rebuild its livestock industry."

Supplies Sent From Canada

As a remedy for the approaching crisis the report suggested the utmost in co-operation, both national and international, in the matter of producing and distributing food. It is distressing to most people to realize that while the food consumption per capita on this continent is the highest in the world, in some parts of Europe and Asia it is at near starvation levels. Canada has contributed largely to the world food supply during the years when the need in Europe and Asia has been so great, and the grain, meat and other supplies sent from here have provided relief in many distressed areas. This continent is one of the few sources of abundant food supply in these times and it is to be hoped that, in co-operation with other producing countries, means may be found of averting a collapse such as the Emergency Food Council warns us may now be impending.

TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHT FOR SIX RACE HORSES

Horses are so affected by seasickness that many thoroughbreds, after a rough sea voyage, have been unfit to race for as long as six months. To avoid this hazard, a plane was used recently to transport six race horses from Limerick, Ireland, to Los Angeles, first cargo of its kind ever flown across the Atlantic. 2752

SCIENTIST PLANNING ROCKET-BORNE "SKY CAMERAS"

AZUSA, Calif.—Rocket-borne telescopes photographing the heavens at heights of 300 to 600 miles—and artificial meteors from the earth bombarding the moon and Jupiter—were envisioned by a California Institute of Technology scientist.

"Rocket-borne telescopes are destined to relegate earth-tied telescopes no matter how big and powerful, such as the 200-inch, to a secondary role, said Dr. Fritz Zwicky, professor of astrophysics. The institute's 200-inch mirror is to be installed soon on Mt. Palomar.

He said he is now laying plans for research on large primary rockets such as the V-2 which would carry secondary rockets. The latter, he hopes, would reach 300-600-mile heights, bearing scientific equipment. The telescope and camera-bearing rockets would return to earth for examination by scientists.

Might Do Away With Need For Highways

The Lethbridge Herald says: Maybe we're wrong building all these expensive highways. This is suggested to us by a report from Seven Persons saying that a district resident flew his private plane to town, collected some groceries and his mail and flew home again. Perhaps this is prophetic of what lies ahead though we're a bit inclined to doubt that the automobile as the family conveyance will disappear so readily. However, the plane incident is another nail in the coffin of Old Dobbin.

FARMER'S COLUMN

By R. J. Milligan

It seems silly to talk about seed grain just because we had a recent mild spell but that's just what I am going to do. We farmers must be prepared for every eventuality and now is a good time to get prepared.

Have you had a germination test made on your wheat, oats or barley? Is your seed cleaned for next spring? Goodness, won't that man ever let we farmers rest! There will be a big rush in spring for germination tests, get your now. How about cleaning a sample and get a weed count made at the same time? Where do you send this sample? "The Plant Products, Science Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Immigration Building, Calgary." How much do you send? One pound. How much will it cost? Seventy five cents. That isn't much when you know that your seed will germinate well and you will also know if no weed seeds are present, that you won't be having trouble with the field supervisor employed by the Agricultural Service Board.

If you learn from such a test that your seed won't germinate you will have ample time to procure other seed. Where will you get this new seed if some neighbor's bin and get that. It should be tested as you did yours. His may not germinate either. Incidentally, no grain can be lawfully sold as seed until a control sample certificate has been issued which will show the rate of germination and the weed seeds present, if any. Have you tried the seed exchange policy in effect at your elevator? If you need seed, try this out. I have made the above suggestions because of our unfavorable harvest weather. You all realize that weathering lessens germinability of any grain.

All farmers who have grown registered grain and the fields passed the inspection should get their grain cleaned at once. Then proceed to get the necessary tests made and seed rule established. From this point get some of it sacked and apply for sealing in the sacks. At this time, a further inspection takes place. If your grain passes this test, list the quantity with the Alberta Seed Growers Association, Alexandra Building, Edmonton, for sale. We are apt to be short of registered seed this spring so start on your work now.

Registered seed grain prices are listed as follows: No. wheat $5.25 per bushel; oats, $3.00 per bushel; barley $3.50 per bushel; flax, $8.00 per bushel. That's very high. In economics, that would indicate a strong demand therefore your grain from registered seed is valuable. Don't be deceived just because registered grain is expensive. No farmer can afford to ignore the value of good seed. All grain farmers should have a seed plot to supply his needs in future years. Order your seed requirements at once and be assured of a seed plot. Those that planted registered seed last spring are going to reap their harvest by increased profits and increased yields before spring.

Speed Limit Plan Is Being Protested

Strong protests against the provincial government's plan to bring in an amendment to the Vehicles and Highways Traffic Act at the next session of the legislature in order to impose a maximum speed limit on highways were expressed at the recent annual meeting of the Edmonton branch of the Alberta Motor Association.

A resolution was passed asking that there be NO change in the present traffic regulations which requires motorists to observe a reasonable rate of speed having regard to prevailing conditions and circumstances.

The government proposes to impose a speed limit of 50 miles per hour.

Curlers Meet At Rockyford

The Rockyford Curling Club held its general organization meeting recently when plans for the coming season and election of officers were the main points of business.

Art Dunsmore was elected president of the club for the coming year, while the vice-president's post will be shared by Charles County and Lawrence Roppel. Al Douglas was named secretary treasurer.

The season opens with the annual president's versus the vice-president's match for the oyster dinner. Roy Cunliffe is drawmaster with the square draw being limited to 16 rinks.

Keen interest is being shown so far with 17 full rinks enrolled already with nine spares. A series of matches has been arranged with neighboring towns through the Lions Club.

Rockyford's rink was completed in 1945 and consists of two sheets of ice. The club has new matched rocks which were imported from Scotland.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

THE PURSUED

By JOHN H. CHAVE

THE street was poorly lighted, but here and there a streetlamp sparkled in the rain. Halfway to the party at the Randolph's, Marie Wilkins saw the headlights of a car coming slowly behind her. I wonder, she asked herself, could that be Ed? Perhaps he had relented and had come after her, was trying to find her on the way. He was going to be kind about her storming out of the house after their foolish quarrel at the dinner-table. She must have hurt him deeply when she had said "All right, Ed, if you won't come to the Randolph's with me tonight, I'll go to the party myself, even if I have to walk!" She had flashed her hazel eyes at him. "And Jim Fowler will see that I get home—if I do come back."

Now she felt remorseful, walking alone through the rain, utterly miserable.

Her good coat seemed now quite as bedraggled as her hair. Her nose, she thought, needed a touch of powder, and her eyes smarted with tears that the scattered raindrops only partly concealed.

Marie looked back over her shoulder, and saw to her disappointment that she did not recognize the car. It seemed to be following her, so she began to walk more quickly.

Alarming thoughts raced through her head as she remembered how the papers were full of stories about purse-snatching and worse. It had been anger rather than courage that had led her out on such a night. She clutched her purse and drew her coat more tightly around her. She still had a long block to go.

Even when she quickened her pace the car kept along beside her, its headlights shining like a torch on the wet pavement. Suddenly she was furious that Ed had allowed her to go out in the rain, when taxis were just not to be had. She had always been impetuous, and in the unreasonable bitterness of this, their first quarrel, neither had taken time to think.

The hood of the car was level with her now. She was afraid to look into the car. "I must not run!" she repeated to herself. "Perhaps they will drive on. I'll just go along and mind my own business. But I do wish I'd worn my old coat!"

The car stopped, and three tall men jumped out. In a panic, Marie ran up the steps of the nearest house and pounded on the front door. She could see through to the kitchen. A fat woman with gray hair was coming slowly towards the door, smoothing her dress, patting her hair. The woman stopped to close a closet door and stooped down to pick up a newspaper from the floor.

"Oh, hurry!" called out Marie, frantically, "hurry, please!" The three men ran up the steps behind her.

"Well, what do you want?" asked one of the men. "Who are you looking for?"

"Anything we can do for you?" asked another as he took out his latch-key and opened the door just as the woman reached it.

"Oh," exclaimed Marie, "Oh, my goodness! You live here!"

"Who's this, Frank?" asked the gray-haired woman. "I thought it was a stag-party you're having tonight."

"I don't know who it is, Mother," said the man she called Frank. "Never saw her before."

"Oh, I must have the wrong number," said Marie. "I've made a mistake." She was trembling as she backed away, frightened and embarrassed. "I must be on my way."

She started down the steps. The woman with the gray hair called to her. "Come in and have a cup of tea with us," she invited. "The kettle's on, and it will just take a minute." She looked down the street.

"You must be soaked in this rain."

"Well, thank you," said Marie.

The woman poured the tea and set out cups in the kitchen. "My son's having a few friends in for cards," she said. The cup was not very steady in Marie's hand, but the warm, sweet tea revived her spirits. "You seem frightened, my dear," said the woman. "Frank can drive you home."

"I thought I was being followed," admitted Marie, "but I couldn't impose on you further."

"I don't like to see you start out again alone, my dear," said the woman. Her gray eyes were kind. She eyed the ring on Marie's finger. "Would you like to telephone from here? I doubt if you could find a taxi on a night like this, but perhaps your husband..."

"Yes, I would like to phone," interrupted Marie. "I was just on my way to a party a couple of blocks from here."

As she sat down at the telephone in the hall she thought of how she had been about to phone Jim Fowler before she left the house, knowing he would have been glad to drive over and pick her up. She could have used some of his sympathy after her words with Ed! After a moment she began to dial a number. Outside the rain was still splashing on the panes.

Then, impulsively, she put her hand down on the instrument and dialed a different number. She had to let the phone ring for several seconds. Her face lit up as someone answered.

"Hello, my Darling," she said. "Please, can you come for me? No, I'm fine." She turned to the woman for the address and gave it on the phone. "Thanks, Dearest," she said. "Yes, I'll wait here for you." She was smiling as she hung up.

A few minutes later a car drove up in front of the house and a man in a raincoat and a brown hat came up to the door. Marie went out on the porch to meet him.

The gray-haired woman followed her. "Thank you so much," Marie said to her. "I don't know your name, but I would like you to meet my husband, Ed Wilkins."

"I'm Mrs. Hubly," said the woman. "I'm glad I was able to help you. Sorry you had such an experience."

"It wasn't so bad," said Marie. "I'll never forget this evening—never." She held tightly to Ed's arm as they walked to the car.

ADDING ONE LETTER
MADE BIG DIFFERENCE

NEW YORK. — The mother of a boy at Dartmouth got a telegram from him reading, "ARRIVING FRIDAY EVENING BRINGING SEVEN FOR DINNER AND TO SPEND NIGHT." The poor woman gathered herself and dashed about, rounding up sufficient sheets, blankets, cots, and towels to deal with the invasion. She turned the living room into a dormitory and got in an extra maid. Her son turned up on Friday, sure enough, accompanied by a pleasant, towheaded young classmate named Sven.

Visitors Get Lost
In Box Hedge Maze

The gardens at Hampton Court near London are among the loveliest in England. Several have been there since Tudor days—400 years ago—and are full of old English flowers. And there is the famous box hedge Maze which is 200 years old. People pay a small fee to enter and then have some fun trying to find the exit. It is not uncommon for visitors to walk vainly, and defiantly, through the high box hedges for hours before calling for help. The keeper, obliged at once, of course, but he usually has trouble in trying to hide his grin.

MANITOBA HAS NEW TOURIST PARK

THE PAS, Man.—Forest and lake country, 580 square miles of it, is the newest tourist playground to be established in Manitoba, the new area being located 15 miles north of here and to be named Cormorant Forest Reserve.

If it's fishing the tourist seeks, water comprises 40 per cent. of the territory and trout and pickerel, as sporting as any in the province, are guaranteed by J. S. McDiarmid, provincial minister of mines and natural resources. The new playground is accessible by rail, highway and air.

COMMONEST DANGERS

The stepladder is one of the commonest tools but it is also a danger to life and limb, the National Safety Council was told by N. F. Borgaard of the Patent Scaffolding Co., Chicago. Safety in its use depends upon its design, construction and freedom from injured parts. It should be covered with linseed oil, not paint, the latter making it difficult to inspect. Instruction in the proper use of ladders, he said, is an important factor in reducing accidents caused by ladder falls.
